Pioneering family reunites

ONE of Moorabbin's oldest families is having a reunion next Sunday at Heatherton Recreation Reserve.

Hundreds of people are expected to attend the Follett picnic day which starts at 10 a.m.

It is 128 years since Joseph and Harriet Follett arrived in Australia. They eventually became market gardeners in Heatherton, which was then known as Kingstown.

The family later owned some of the land where Moorabbin Airport is today.

There are an estimated 400 descendants scattered through Australia and overseas.

There will be several interstate descendants at the reunion. Those attending are asked to bring their own food.

Local families related to the Follatts include the Le Pages, Souters, Corrigan, Hawkes, Sheppards and Roses.
